Doors to the Inner Learning Sanctums

You're never too old to enjoy a good scare so the Phoenix high school students at Southwest Leadership Academy made every door in the school a scary entry to each of the school's learning sanctums. They spared nothing to be named the "best aperture" at SLA and the winners were chosen for a special pizza day as their prize. In reality, all of the doors were fantastic and spooky.

In addition to having fun in their classrooms, the school also distributed candy to neighborhood kids and siblings who did a "drive-by" Trick or Treat. Halloween turned into a fun day at SLA and a little bit of Halloween candy made everyone get a sugar high on learning.
